LAW TAKES MUCH BOOZE IN RAID

WAS AT HOME OF GUY HELM ON EAST THIRD STREET.

TWO ARRESTS MADE

Helm Already Facing Trial for Possession of Intoxicating Liquor.

Mayor F. P. Robinson and Ed Wallace raided the home of Guy Helm on East Third street last night at 9:45 o'clock and discovered a 16-gallon barrell, full, and a thirty gallon keg, half-full of some fermented concoction.

Helm and a young man by the name of Virgil Belcher were found in an intoxicated condition and were arrested. When taken to the calaboose it was found that Belcher was in such a state of illness that he was taken to his home.

Mayor Robinson said that the "hooch" or whatever it was had an awful smell and an apparent kick. He said that Belcher was about as sick as a human could be.

Helm maintains that the barrel contained vinegar and that the keg contained cider.

His trial was set for the afternoon of October 12. This will make two trials for him on this same day as he is now out on bond facing trial for the possession of intoxicating liquor, for which he was arrested Sunday night.

This morning Chief of Police E. E. Tilton and Deputy Sheriff Leo Atherton visited the Helm home and confiscated the keg and barrel containing the stuff, whatever it is. It now is resting peacefully in the vault at the sheriffs office.

More than 200 extract bottles were in and around the home.

Chief Tilton says that the concoction is a mixture of ground corn and cider and that it emits an odor strong enough to make a mule lose his equilibrium.

Mayor Robinson released Helm this morning when his employer, who is building a barn, came in and said that he needed him badly to work today. The mayor released Helm on the condition that the employer was to take him and see that he behaved. Shortly before noon today Helm was found on the streets drunk and was arrested a second time, this time placed in jail.

MAYOR ISSUES PROCLAMATION FOR FIRE PREVENTION DAY

Mayor Robinson Urges Property Owners to Remove Waste Paper and Other Rubish.

To the Public:

October 9 being set aside as a nation wide Fire Prevention Day, I desire to call the attention of the citizens of Maryville to the observance of said day in such manner as will bring results.

The fire waste in the United States is appalling and statistics show that a very large per cent of same is absolutely unnecessary and the observations and statistics of our own fire department prove conclusively that a large per cent of the loss here is through gross carelessness and inattention to the condition of buildings and premises.

I therefore suggest and urge that each property owner and each resident carefully inspect his premises and remove therefrom at once, all waste paper and other rubbish, that he carefully inspect his flues, stovepipes, furnace pipes and roof ,and see that they are in a safe condition.

Be careful with your kerosene and gasoline, see that your stoves are in good condition and remember that an electric iron or other electric heating device, if left connected, is certain to cause a fire, there having been a number of such fires in Maryville recently.

A small expense at this time may save you and your neighbor a loss that insurance cannot recompense. The fire chief and the members of the fire department wil assist you with suggestions, if you will call upon them.

F. P. ROBINSON, Mayor.

Mrs. Fred Herman of Belleville, Ill., who has been visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Sturm on East First Street will return to her home Saturday night.

SNODGRASS TO TALK ON "WASTE" TO HIS CLASS

Pastor of First Christian Church Believes That It Is Threatening the Very Life of the Nation

The Rev. R. E. Snodgrass, pastor of the First Christian Church and teacher of the Men's Bible Class, is announcing a series of lectures for the Sunday morning meetings on "Waste."

Mr. Snodgrass says: "I believe that one of the greatest things threatening the very life and prosperity of our nation at this time is the extravagance and waste practiced in the various phases of our living. This has a great moral effect upon the people and thus very directly does it deal with matters of religion. It has its effect upon the work of the church and because of this I feel justified in handling this topic of "Waste" in a series of addresses to my men.

"The subjects as I am announcing them are as follows:

October 8—"Waste in Government and Industry."

October 15—"Waste in Our Family Life."

October 22—"Waste in Time and Talent."

October 29—"The Remedies."

"I hope to make these topics of vital and practical value to every man and shall be happy for any co-operation given. All men, not attending Bible school elsewhere, are invited to our Men's class to hear these addresses.

"The class meets in the tent every Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock."

TO MAKE FILM OF NODAWAY SCHOOLS

200 FEET FOR EACH OF THE HIGH SCHOOLS

MUST FURNISH STUNTS

These Are to Be Given on a Platform To Be Erected West of the Courthouse

The Nodaway County School Day, to be held in Maryville Wednesday, will mark the beginning of a Nodaway County School motion picture film. The Chamber of Commerce has arranged with Ralph Marcell to take twenty feet of film of each school where a stunt is furnished for the high schools' part of the program, which is to take place in the evening. Since the beginning of the planning for the school day, committees had been trying to hit on some plan for the high schools. It was decided that in place of offering a remuneration in the way of cash or a prize for each school that the films be taken. Superintendents of the schools were impressed with the idea. The committee got in touch with ten of them yesterday and each one said to count on his school for a stunt.

The pictures will be taken at the school buildings and will probably be run throughout the county with "Agriculture in Nodaway County." Pictures of the schools all combined would make a reel or more.

The stunts of the different high schools are not to be more than fifteen minutes in length. They may consist of music, playlet, pantomime, quartet, sextet, chorus or other things that they may want to put on. The stunts will be given on a platform that will be erected west of the courthouse. Main street can be kept clear of motor cars and a large crowd accommodated. There will be a piano on the stage.

The schools that said yesterday that they would have stunts were Burlington Junction, Clearmont, Elmo, Quitman, Barnard, Guilford, Hopkins, Graham, Pickering, Maryville an Skidmore. The committees are making an effort today to get in touch with the others and it is probable that each of the high schools of the county will be represented.

Miss Florine Allen, superintendent of the Lafayette High School, in a telephone conversation this morning said that she thought Lafayette could furnish a stunt.

Word was received from Conception College this afternoon that that institution would send a 20-piece band to Maryville October 11 and that it would let out classes at 11 o'clock so that as many of the students as who care to do so may come for the rest of the day. It was said that the college would also put on some kind of a stunt.

A message came in this afternoon from Ravenwood High School that said that school would take part in the evening program.

NEAR EAST PARLEY ENDS IN DEADLOCK

BRITISH FEAR ATTACK BY TURKS AT CHANAK

TO RESUME CONFERENCE

Chief Obstacles Are Thrace, Constantinople and Adrianople Situations

London, Oct. 6—Fears of war in Asia Minor were renewed today following the collapse of the Turco-Allied armistice conference at Mudania.

The British fear an offensive attack by the Turks against the British at Chanak on the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles.

Henri Franklin Bouillon, allied pacification emissary, is blamed for the breakdown because he informed the Turks they made impossible demands.

The house was stunned by the sudden collapse of negotiations. Hopes were raised that the parley was on the point of signing an agreement.

Constantinople, Oct. 6—The Near East armistice conference which entered a sudden deadlock at Mundania will be resumed Sunday or Monday, according to information received here today immediately after the conference close.

Information was received that the Turks have crossed the neutral zone at Ismid, South of here.

The allies are to consult the government's pending renewal of negotiations. The chief obstacles are the refusal of the Greeks to withdraw from Thrace and the insistance of the Turks to occupy Constantinople and Adrianople immediately.

SELF SACRIFICE IN THE MEDICAL PROFESSION.

An announcement was recently made by the American Gas association that a number of physicians and scientists had voluntarily inhaled deadly gases to the point of asphyxiation, to test out resuscitating methods. The public ought to feel grateful to the self sacrificing men who brave perils like this for the benefit of human life.

Not merely are daring experimenters constantly assuming such risks, but physicians and nurses are continually taking chances in their professional devotion. If your child has some dangerous contagious disease, the average man might not be willing to enter any part of your home, while your doctor and nurse spend many hours in the sick room taking chances that they may catch a deadly infection. People do not half appreciate the sacrifices that these professions make.

Most school districts can afford any kind of a school they want. It is mainly a question of getting them to want something better than they have.

A big man in the dye industry is working on a new process to make colored movies. Perhaps within a few years movies will be presented in colors and the black and white kind will be the rare ones.

With Senator Reed, democrat, appealing for republican votes and R. R. Brewster, republican, appealing for democratic votes, Missouri seems to have fallen heir to a very unique senatorial campaign.

The Paris Appeal propounds this question: "If one-half the democrats vote the republican ticket this fall, and one-half the republicans vote the democratic ticket as is threatened, which side will win and by what majority?"

Having been eliminated by the voters of New York as a presidential possibility, William R. Hearst has bought a couple more newspapers and will probably make it uncomfortable for someone else. He has recently bought the San Francisco Call and a paper in Oakland, California. He already owned the San Francisco Examiner and the Los Angeles Examiner.

One of the chief curses of America is "pistol toting." Chief Magistrate McAdoo of New York City says "more people in New York and Chicago carry pistols than in the whole of Europe." There are only two curses for carrying revolvers or having them in this country. One is for official use and the other is for protection. The first is very limited and the latter amounts to nothing in real practice. The people who carry revolvers are not citizens who want or need protection as a rule, but crooks who expect to use them for the purposes of burglary, robbery and murder. A pistol in the hands or pockets of a respectable citizen means nothing when he faces a gun man who doesn't hesitate to engage a bunch of policemen or other officers in battle. Four fifths of the holdups and killings would not take place if the lawless element was not allowed to buy or carry pistols. Men might defend their homes with guns or rifles, but the crook must have something he can conceal. The only way to reduce the bad results is to make it impossible for men who do not bear good reputations to buy or possess revolvers—or limit the possession of them to peace officers altogether. The present condition is all against the respectable citizen and not for him at all.

MISS ANNA M. PAINTER'S BROTHER DIES TRAGIC DEATH

Was Gored by Bull September 25 and Died a Half-hour Later—Sister Is In Paris

The following account of the tragedy is taken from the New Castle, Indiana, Times of September 26:

"One of the most deplorable and tragic deaths in the county recently occurred last evening about 8 o'clock at the home of Henry W. Painter, six miles south of the city, when his son, Clarence D. Painter was gored by a bull and died about a half hour later.

Clarence Painter, age 46, had gone to the barn to do some chores and was presumably feeding the cattle at the time. This was at 7:30 o'clock. Painter was in the stall with a registered bull and it is thought started to leave through a stanchion, when the bull gored him in the back, crushing him against the side of the stall. He sustained a broken collar bone and his right chest was crushed. He also was severely bruised about the body.

Groans attracted the attention of his 16 year old daughter, Agnes, who summoned Henry Painter and the hired hand who removed him to the house where he died about thirty minutes after he was found.

Besides his daughter he is survived by his mother and father, two brothers and two sisters, Mrs. Daniel Mergler, who lives in Kansas, and an unmarried sister, Anna M. Painter, who is now in Paris studying. Miss Painter left for Europe just a few weeks ago and is expected to remain about a year.

The bull which is responsible for the fatal accident is the property of the Registered Association and has been at the Painter farm for about a year, but never before had shown the least indication toward violence."

Miss Anna M. Painter was granted a leave of absence from the State Teachers College in Maryville last summer to study. Friends in Maryville received word recently that she had arrived in Paris and that her address is 13 Boulevard Montmerency, Paris XVI, France.

Mrs. J. C. Miller and little son, Eugene of Lenox, Ia., returned home yesterday after a week's visit with relatives in Maryville and Conception.

REED'S ENEMIES CHIDED BY WASHINGTON EDITOR.

Post Tells St. Louisian Wm. R. Hearst Is not Republican.

Washington, October 6.—Things are getting mixed, and politics, as usual, is making strange bedfellows, concludes the Washington Star in an editorial this evening, based upon the declaration of the Volunteer Association of St. Louis Democrats classing William Randolph Hurst as a Republican.

"Hearst is enjoying the unusual distinction of figuring this year on both sides of the fence—hailed in one state as a Democrat and posted in another as a Republican," says the Star.

"In New York he is hailed as a Democrat. His declaration in favor of the Syracuse ticket has given much satisfaction to Tammany Hall. Leader Murphy is pleased, and Candidate Smith, a Tammany man, is pleased, also. Mr. Hearst's act is praised as an exhibition of true sportsmanship and appraised as improving Democratic prospects. The suggestion is made that he may realize on it in a practical way another year, particularly if the Syracuse ticket is elected.

"In Missouri Mr. Hearst is posted as a Republican. Democratic opposition to Senator Reed, notwithstanding his success in the primary, is organizing, and among the charges made is that part of the Senator's strength comes from Republican sources.

"This opposition has issued an address, from which this is taken:

"'We will not desert the leadership of Woodrow Wilson in favor of the leadership of a man indorsed and supported by and owing his nomination to the efforts of William Randolph Hearst, George Sylvester Viereck, Heinrich Heine, John C. Myers and hosts of other Republicans.'

"But these Missouri Democrats ignore the fact that in New York the Wilson influence and the Hearst influence are co-operating. Candidate Smith was brought into the field through Wilsonion agencies in order to defeat Mr. Hearst; and now, having accomplished the object, the Wilsonians find Mr. Hearst of a forgiving disposition and marching in their company."

IMPORT BEADS BY BILLIONS

Demand for Those Ornaments by the Women of the United States Seems Insatiable.

Ballots and beads must belong together in the mind of the modern woman. At any rate, ten strings of beads are worn today when one was worn before the war and before the vote. Beads by the billions are being imported. This year's record promises to run far ahead of last year's, and last year's record was worth a glance.

To make any comment upon the advanced and emancipated woman's interest in the ornament that is usually set down as a South sea savage's notion of an all-but-complete costume is quite unnecessary. The figures speak for themselves.

From central Europe, from France, from the shores of the entire Mediterranean, from all Judea, from the three great countries of the Far East, the making of beads for the United States is a big business, declares a New York Sun writer. Not satisfied with the quantity that can be turned out with everybody working at the job of decorating the dresses and the hats and the shoes of millions of American women, the demand for something different has made the best dealers set the very South sea savage to scraping up the seashells from the shores of lonely isles that are all but lost on any average map.

To the national bill for tire materials could be added the cost of all imported cigarettes and then the total would be $35,000,000 short of meeting the total outlay for feminine ornaments. In spite of the increase in the amount of coffee imported, the cup that cheers America at breakfast time costs far less than the beads that women wear. About $66,000,000 less. The comedy continues throughout the whole list of life's lesser luxuries.

WOMEN IN VARIOUS TRADES

Fair Sex Has Traveled Far From What Was Considered Proper in the Victorian Era.

There are today in New York state 789 women in the building trades including women carpenters, electricians, house painters, glaziers, paper hangers, plasterers, plumbers, and even stone cutters. There are also women working as common laborers for the railroads.

We have had factory workers, to be sure, for long years, but in the past they have been chiefly employed as semi-skilled operators in clothing, textile and similar industries. Today, New York state boasts 2,610 in lumber and furniture work; 6,302 doing semi-skilled tasks in steel and iron and 3,217 working among the other metals; while 1,107 work in clay, stone or glass. The combined list of mill workers and skilled operators runs considerably more than 300,000 for the state.

Such tasks are not so anti-Victorian as quarrying, mining, stevedoring, of course, in which women are also engaged, but they are still a far cry from the kitchen stove, the parlor dust cloth and the nursery.—Florence Guy Woolston in the New Republic.

Chewing Gum Gave Him Away.

A gob of chewing gum has disrupted a family. In a recent divorce case the wife, who was suing, testified that she was sure that her husband was unfaithful, but did not know for certain to which one of several charmers he was paying attention.

One morning she found a gob of gum that he had been chewing the night before when he returned home late. In the lump of gum was the fatal red hair. She caused a watch to be placed on the woman who had locks to match the hair she found and discovered that her husband was a frequent visitor at the red-head's apartment and got a divorce in record time. Talk about your detective stories, what a plot!—Portland Oregonian.

Locomotive From Scrap Iron.

Working for eleven years, with a file as his only tool, a man in Buenos Ayres has made a miniature locomotive of scrap iron. The locomotive can be operated under its own power by the use of compressed air. The iron was not heated in the making, but was worked cold. A small coal tender and passenger coach were made at the same time and the whole thing is a little more than six feet in length and weighs 170 pounds. More than 1,300 screws and 2,000 rivets were used in the work. The train is complete to the last tiny detail and is built on the model of the equipment used on the British railroads of that country.

Corncobs.

Corncobs are being turned into automobile fuel, also a hard rubber substitute for phonograph records, pipe stems, varnish, buttons and electrical parts.

This commercial alchemy happens not in Germany, famous for its utilization of by-products, but right here in America. It is the result of six years of research by La Forge and Mains, chemistry experts of the Department of Agriculture.

Chemical engineering is one of the biggest fields open to young men today. It is the modern Aladdin's lamp.

Norwegian Co-operative Bank.

A new bank, called "Bondernes" (farmer's) bank, has been organized in Christiania, Norway, by a combination of savings banks, co-operative associations and farmers. The authorized capital stock is $4,200,000, and it begins business with $2,680,000.

ALMOST PUT HIS FOOT IN IT

Visitor In Small Town Found He Had to Be Exceptionally Careful About Offending In-Laws.

There is a town in the Southwest where the families have intermarried to such an extent that it is difficult for an outsider to make the least criticism of one person without the danger of offending some family connection. When an unfortunate visitor commented on this fact to Mr. Jones, the postmaster, Mr. Jones nodded.

"Bill Perkins—that's our sheriff—complained of that no longer ago than last week," said he, according to the Philadelphia Ledger.

"You see, it took him more'n a week to arrest Frank because Frank got wind that he was wanted on a little matter of sellin' moonshine, and he went on a round of visits amongst his relatives, aunts, nephews-in-law and I don't know what all, and it wasn't till he had had his fill and went back home to his wife that Bill could make the arrest without seeming to kind of butt in, as you might say, and spoil the reunions."

"I should think he would make a strange sort of sheriff," said the visitor, "waiting all the time for sentimental reasons and then arresting a man when he went home, just because his wife wasn't a relation!"

Whereupon the postmaster drew himself up and assumed a remote expression.

"That's as you look at it," he said in a chilly tone. "I may be a bit prejudiced in Bill's favor, as he married my son-in-law's youngest sister. Anything that concerns him concerns me, you understand."

FRAGRANCE ON PRISON AIR

Electric Perfumer in Cleveland County Jail Arouses Mind to All Kinds of Possibilities.

Attar of roses and sweet scents of Araby! There's an electric perfumer at the county jail. It casts all kinds of sweetness on the prison air. Just turn the button and the jail becomes a garden of roses or fragrant with the scent of orange blossoms.

The other day the atmosphere of the jail reflected the aroma of the forest cedar. It might have been Norway pine, sassafras, crab apple blossom, but it just happened that the perfumer was charged to dispense an aroma tinged with forest cedar.

The machine has possibilities, the sheriff believes. It might be employed to awaken the prisoners each morning with scents of violets and soothe them at breakfast with odors of ham, eggs, corn fritters, grapefruit and other viands not on the regular morning menu of coffee and butterless bread.

Oh, yes, indeed, the machine has possibilities. At night it could discharge the odor of pineapple or figs or dates, and any prisoner with a good sense of smell and a strong imagination could readily go to sleep and feel that he was in Hawaii.

But the perfumer is in jail only on trial.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Little Density in Fog.

It takes a big block of fog to make one good swallow of water, says Dr. W. J. Humphreys of the United States weather bureau at Washington. The densest fog off Newfoundland banks contains some 20,000 droplets in a cubic inch, Doctor Wells and Doctor Thuras of the bureau of standards found.

To get one gulp of water enough fog to fill a space 3 by 5 by 100 feet would have to be condensed. In a fog that size there are 60,000,000,000,000 particles of water. "It would take about a half hour to count an inch of fog particles," says Doctor Humphreys. Placed side by side, 2,500 to 3,000 droplets would be needed to fill that length." The droplets in a cloud have been found to be, on the average, twice the size of a fog droplet.

Oil From Sunflower Seed.

The sunflower is a possible source of oil, a large quantity of it having been made from sunflower seed in Russia before the war. The cold-pressed oil is used for culinary and other purposes where a high-grade edible oil is required, while the hot-pressed is employed in making soaps and Russian varnishes. In 1911, more than 500 mills in the Caucasus were engaged in pressing sunflower seed. It is possible that the sunflower may some day be an important oil-producing plant in tthis country. The crop is now grown to quite an extent in some parts of the country, notably Missouri, for poultry feed.

Meteors Fall in Saskatchewan.

A giant meteor plunged into the Big Quill lake, near Wynward, Saskatchewan. A fiery body was seen by many in the district to drop from a clear sky and clouds of steam rose from the lake for some time after it had sunk in the water. Other meteoric disturbances are reported from Vanscoy, Saskatchewan, southwest of Saskatoon. People in the neighborhood heard five or six loud explosions and the earth between Vanscoy and Pike lake was shaken.—Montreal Gazette.

Huge Jellyfish.

A jellyfish of beautiful, translucent blue, weighing close of 60 pounds, was washed ashore on the south of England coast recently. The creature has seven odd-looking pink-hued tentacles protruding below the body of it and had two orifices resembling gills to breathe through. Some of us have vivid recollections of being stung badly by small ones and tremble to think what such a big fellow as this could do.—Exchange.

Where would we be anyway if it weren't for advertising?

What a lot of time advertising saves us! We need something. We see it advertised. And we go straight from where we are now to where the article is sold.

Have you ever gone around from place to place seeking for something which you knew existed but which nobody else seemed to know anything about, not even the storekeepers?

You have wasted an hour, maybe several hours, possibly half a day. You have worn out your patience, and before the end of the quest probably you began to figure that the thing which you sought was not, after all, so good as you thought it was, otherwise other people besides yourself would know something about it.

The manufacturer who advertises, invests his money, therefore, not alone to tell of the merits of his goods, but to save you time. The manufacturer who is willing to pay for advertising space in newspapers or magazines in order to point out to you where his merchandise is sold, so that you may get there quicker and buy it easier, is not going to skimp or cheat in manufacturing it.

After going to all the trouble and expense of telling you just where you may find it, he is going to see to it that when you do buy it, it is good enough so that you will buy it again.

And in making up your mind about merchandise which is advertised, consider this last thought—the manufacturer can well afford to make it as good as it can be made because one sale means hundreds, even thousands of others following naturally and costing him nothing extra.

THE SUM AND CENTER OF THE WORLD'S HOPE

The Coming of Jesus to the World Is An Event Like No other Event

(By C. L. Ficklin, editor of the DeKalb County Herald, Maysville, Mo.)

We come to the center of the Scriptures, the center of God's plan of love and saving, the center of the hope of the world.

And what is the center?

The coming of Jesus to the world.

Some people in writing on next Sunday's lesson have a great deal to say about what all Jesus did in the days of his childhood while he was at Nazareth, how He played with other boys, and how He helped Joseph at work, and how He made light implements for the use of the peasants about Nazareth. And they go into details about the things that He did around over the hills and valleys of Galilee. Maybe He did those things Maybe there are a lot of them that He did not do. Probably if Almighty God had wanted us to know the details of the child life of Jesus He would have told us more about that child life. Very little is known of the child life of Jesus. It is quite apparent that God has had written down for us all that we need to know. It is not necessary for us to try to be wise above and beyond what is written.

Let us treasure up what has been set down for us.

Our lesson this next Sunday is the whole second chapter of Luke, Joseph and Mary went up to the city of David. Everything was crowded there. There was no room in the inn for them. They were crowded out. They sought humbler quarters, common quarters, the most meagre of quarters, and Jesus was born in a manger.

His mother was Mary.

He had no earthly father. He was conceived of the Holy Ghost. He was the Son of God. He was both human and divine. Let us accept at the outset of our study of the life of Christ the plain teachings of the Scriptures about the birth of Jesus. Let us step along reverently here. Let us not try to know more than Luke and Matthew and God knew.

Jesus, born in a manger at Bethlehem of Judea was God's own Son. God's only begotten Son.

When He was twelve years of age Joseph and Mary took Him to Jerusalem. It was a long journey. It was about eighty miles from Nazareth to Jeruslem. Joseph and Mary went every year to the Feast of the Passover. Joseph and Mary were devout people. We have abundant evidence of that fact. Nobody goes eighty miles to church now, and we have much faster means of transportation now than Joseph and Mary had. In fact the automobile takes us away from church probably more often that it takes us to church.

About the only specific thing that we know about the boyhood life of Jesus is contained in the account of His going to Jerusalem and to the temple. Joseph and Mary had left the temple. They had started home. And after they had got far out on the way they had missed Jesus. They inquired among the relatives and friends who were along in the company and when He was not to be found in the returning band of people Joseph and Mary went back and in three days time they located Him in the temple confounding the doctors of the temple, both hearing and asking questions. It is interesting to note the meeting of mother and Son in the temple. She had the mother heart. She had missed her boy. She was nervous about it. She had suffered for three days the feeling of the lostness of her boy.

But he was not lost.

Most people at many times get lost, lost physically, lost over mental problems, lost as what to do about problems that harrow and bewilder, lost about what to do or say.

But Jesus of Nazareth always knew where He was and what He was about.

The words of the mother when she found her Son in the temple disputing with the wise men there sound in print like they might have been words of reproof. Probably they were not. They represented the spilling over of a heart of love and anxiety.

The words of Jesus sound in print like they might have been words of reproof to the mother. Probably they were not. But He gave her to understand that the fact was quite apparent even then that He ought to be about His Father's business. And the mother was astonished and the doctors of the temple were astonished.

And so we are this week ushered into the presence of this perfect personality in the history of this world.

We shall continue this study from week to week.

The work should be begun with childlike hearts.

The third chapter of Exodus opens up with telling about Moses keeping Jethro's flock, and the burning bush stood out before him. And Moses said, "I will now turn aside and see this great sight, why the bush is not burnt."

And you recall that God said:

"Draw not hither: put off thy shoes from off thy feet, for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground."

Let us take off our secular sandals as we go into the lessons of the coming weeks. This is holy ground we are entering on. Too many worldlings, without spirtual sense, without reverence, without any respect for divine realities, walk with godless shoes and sandals on, into the presence of Jesus and lay unhallowed fingers of bluff familiarity upon Him to explain Him on what is known as a basis of naturalism. Such people are blind leaders of the blind. They have no idea how utterly silly and sightless they are. Jesus is beyond any human explanation. He is the unique personality of all ages. All the evidence is to the effect that He was God and man in one. A simple faith in that great fact leads the Sunday School pupil away from difficulty and into the light.

Use Your Head And You Are Safer If Caught In A Burning Building

In connection with Fire Prevention Week now being observed throughout the Nation, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States has issued some practical suggestions concerning what to do in case of a fire. These suggestions follow:

"Whenever you go into a large building or auditorium or take a room in a hotel you should become acquainted with the location of the fire exits as soon as possible. Since many lives are lost due to ignorance of proper methods of getting out of a building quickly, it is advisable that everyone be prepared with the information in advance.

"If you happen to be in such a place when a fire occurs, keep from getting excited and use your best efforts to prevent excitement among those near you. If in a crowd, do not try to run or push your way through. It has always been found that a building can be emptied much more quickly if the occupants leave it in an orderly manner. Frequently, fires have brought disaster, not from the flames, but because of panic.

"If your clothes catch on fire, never attempt to run. Your movement simply fans the flames. The quickest and best method of extinguishing burning clothing is to roll the wearer in a rug or blanket, or any other heavy material. Care should be used to extinguish the flames around the face and head as soon as possible to prevent the wearer from inhaling the flames.

"If you are unfortunate enough to be caught in a burning building, remember that smoke and flames travel more quickly when there is a draft. It pays to think a moment of the results before throwing open windows and doors. A door opened at the wrong moment may cause smoke to rush into the room, overcoming the occupants or making their escape impossible. When leaving a burning room close the door. This will retard the spread of flames.

"It is important to remember that it is natural for smoke to rise. There is always, therefore, less smoke near the floor; and in a burning room you will be safest if you keep your head as low as possible. The best method of leaving a room full of smoke is by crawling.

"In case of emergency a rope can be quickly made out of bed sheets. It is important to remember, however, to tear the sheets in strips before tying them. In this manner one or two sheets will produce a rope of considerable length."

Raises Champion Sweet Spud

R. Dollison takes the prize in this community this year, so far as has been reported, for the largest sweet potato. He displayed one at the office of the Post the fore part of the week which tipped the scales at 3½ pounds. It was a well shaped potato, in addition to being a large one, and would furnish a pretty good sized family enough for a full meal.—Burlington Junction Post.

STATE OF MISSOURI IS WITHOUT OFFICIAL FLOWER.

Pennsylvania, Tennessee and South Carolina Others Without Symbol—Violet Popular.

Missouri is one of the four states having no official state flower. The others having no flower emblem are Pennsylvania, South Carolina and Tennessee. A number of years ago the Pennsylvania legislature chose the mountain laurel, but Governor Brumbaugh vetoed their choice.

The state flowers have been selected by acts of legislatures or by popular vote. Each state has chosen a flower that in some way symbolizes the state.

The violet is the most popular. It was chosen for Illinois, New Jersey, Rhode Island, and Wisconsin. It is the only flower that has been chosen by more than two states.

Louisiana and Mississippi are the only two neighboring states to select the same flower. They have chosen the magnolia. Vermont has chosen red clover; Arkansas and Michigan, the apple blossom; Delaware, the peach blossom; Florida, the orange; and Oregon, the Oregon grape.

The rhododendron has been the choice of West Virginia and Washington, representing East and West. The goldenrod was the choice of the North and South when it was selected by Alabama and Nebraska.

Other state flowers are: Sunflower, Kansas; pine cone and tassel, Maine; dogwood, Virginia; black-eyed susan, Maryland; mountain laurel, Connecticut; daisy, North Carolina; mayflower, Massachusetts; moccasin flower, Minnesota; bitter root, Montana; purple lilacs, New Hampshire; red carnation, Ohio; rasque flower, South Dakota; bluebonnet, Texas; Sego lily, Utah; carnation, Indiana; California poppy, California; sagebrush, Nevada; cactus, New Mexico; mistletoe, Oklahoma; Indian paintbrush, Wyoming; rose, Georgia; wild rose, Iowa; wild prairie rose, North Dakota; sahuare, Arizona; columbine, Volorado; syringa, Idaho; New York, Cherokee rose, and trumpet vine, Kentucky.

HAS ICE AT ALL SEASONS

Montana Indian, Digging Well, Seemingly Came Upon Most Remarkable Freak of Nature.

More than eight years ago John Spotted Wolf, an Indian of the Cheyenne reservation in eastern Montana, decided that he should like to have a well near his log cabin. So he and his wife Mary chose a spot near a large pine tree, perhaps 20 rods from the door, and then John began to dig.

By noon of the second day he had dug down ten feet. Although the weather was mild, he had complained of being cold while at work. After eating he put on an extra coat and went to work again. He kept Mary and her brother Rolling Bull busy hauling up and carrying away the dirt that he loosened. But in spite of John's extra clothing he still was cold. On the third morning he added more clothing; but when night came and the well had reached the depth of 18 feet he was almost frozen.

The next morning he again descended the well and worked as rapidly as his many layers of clothing would permit. After a while water began to appear. Suddenly he shouted: "Pull me up! Pull me up!"

John had barely reached the surface before the well filled to within a foot of the top and then began to freeze around the edges. In a short time only a small opening perhaps a foot in diameter remained.

The well remains the same way year after year, the Youth's Companion states. During the day in summer the sun melts the ice around the top, but at night it freezes again. The well, which furnishes a permanent ice supply for the people in the neighborhood, is a strange freak of nature of which there are so many in the western part of the state. Tourists who visit the reservation regard it as a great curiosity.

BETTER THAN DISH WASHING

Student Finds Occupation of Driving a Taxi Allows Him More Time for His Books.

The passerby stopped beside the taxicab parked near Bryant park, remarks the New York Sun. He had passed the same driver several times and had noticed he was reading. Once it was Plato's dialogues, another time John Ruskin's "The Stones of Venice," and now his interest was spurred to the questioning point by observing the driver was delving into Aristotle.

"I'm working my way through college," he said. 'I heard about students who washed dishes and all that sort of thing. But taxi driving is the ideal job for the student. I don't start to work until late in the afternoon. I have a rush at only certain hours. The rest of the time I spend studying. You get plenty of time in between fares to learn the Euclid, the history of the pyramids, and why Ruskin is dead against too much purple in painting. I suggest taxi driving any time instead of waiting on tables."

LOVERS OF NATURE.

The American people owe a great deal to the type of men who have aroused public sentiment to the necessity of preserving fine scenery. John Muir, whose name is associated with a wonderful forest park near San Francisco, and other beauty spots which he loved and worked to preserve for public use, was such a man.

Enos Mills, called the father of the Rocky Mountain national park, who recently died near Long's Peak, his beloved summit that he had climed 300 times, was another of the same type. Every section has some men of this character, to whom the public must always be indebted for their effort to preserve for the people the beauty spots of their own locality.

The words and writings of nature lovers should teach the public, not merely that special scenes of grandeur should be saved from defacement, but that every locality has some beauty spots of its own that should be preserved and thrown open to common use as parks and playgrounds. A people cannot be altogether bad when reared among beautiful surroundings.

Thought Photographed.

Commandant Darget of the French army and a noted military criminologist as well as psychologist, experiments in thought photography, resulting in pictures of objects suggested mentally, which, when projected from the mind to a highly sensitized photographic plate held against the forehead of a subject, leave a tangible impression of the object thought of at the moment.

If a criminal fears talking in his sleep, what double-distilled horror will he not know when he comes to realize that the very thoughts of his waking hours may be read at police headquarters as if in cold print, perhaps even more clearly than if he himself were present trying to evade questions?

Fish's Vision Limited.

To the fish the surface of the water, seen from below, presents a circular window surrounded by mirrors, according to Edward Ringwood Hewitt, author of "Secrets of the Salmon," soon to be published by Scribner's. It seems that a fish can see out into the air only through a limited aperture; everywhere else the surface reflects the contents of the stream, or (if it be a shallow one) the bottom. This is because the light rays passing from water to air are bent, and when the angle of the light ray from the fish's eye with the vertical becomes great enough it is bent backward so that it does not enter the air at all, but is directed downward toward the bottom.

Normal Park

Last night I drove out to you
And the wind went whistling thru
Did it seem to you it whispered in its lays,
As it muttered through your pine trees,
That querulous old night breeze
That hungered for old forgotten days
When a night cop didn't hover
In an unsuspecting cover
And a mayor didn't haunt your dusky lanes,
And the tourists weren't many
Which disturbed us scarcely any
As we sang our harmonies to Normal "Janes."
And a twanging sweet quitor
Charmed us faintly from afar,
And the skies and you seemed drawn a trifle nearer.
They were too good to be true
Gone those times and maidens too
And the years that flitted after makes them deared.

Chased Jack Rabbit

Frank Sherlock and Clyde Kegan are telling today of their race with a jack rabbit last night. The two boys were driving north of town when a large jack rabbit took to the road in front of the car and raced them. The boys said that the rabbit raced them for more than half a mile and they were not able to overtake it. It finally turned off of the road into a field.

"Welcome to Miracle Mountain," smiles the host as the Jollyco family disembark from their faithful prairie schooner.

("Why Miracle Mountain?" Because it meets the printed description in every detail!)

"Baths at once? Of course! Soap and hot water all ready, Madame."

"Mrs. Jollyco always brings her own Ivory Soap, sir," says Mr. Jollyco with proper hauteur.

"Ah, of course. But save it, Mrs. Jollyco. Our guests are of the most refined, so we have nothing here but Ivory Soap."

"Yes, sir, I've had eight cases of irritated skin in the past two weeks," Dr. Blank is saying. "Seven of these I've definitely traced to the use of so-called medicated soaps."*

"Well, Blank," says our old friend Dr. Verity, "If people will go on using improper soaps, what can they expect? What soap do you recommend to your patients?"

"Ivory—I know it is pure."

"I've done the same for thirty-five years."

*An actual happening in a large eastern city.

"Julia Jinks, where have you been with my French blue georgette blouse?"

"Why, Miss Sally, I've washed it!"

"Washed it! Why it cost $27.50! Oh, why does my mother keep you in this house?"

"But, Miss Sally, look—it's just as fresh as it was when you bought it—not faded or anything. I just squashed it in Ivory Flakes suds—that couldn't hurt it."

Yes Sally Jollyco, say we, just look! Ivory Flakes is Ivory Soap—it couldn't hurt anything!

A famous dermatologist explains:

Why your complexion needs soap

"To keep it clean, the face needs at least one good washing daily with soap and water and a wash-cloth or soft flesh brush," says the eminent author of a well-known book on the care of the skin.

> "One sometimes encounters the superstition," continues this same authority, "that washing the face is bad for the complexion, and meets individuals who because of that misbelief try to get along with oils and creams as a substitute for soap and water.
> "The layer of dirt and oil that such persons accumulate on the face is a poor makeshift for a clear, clean skin, and is a constant invitation to various disorders of the skin."

Of course, the soap you use on your skin must be pure and so mild that it will not remove all the natural oil while removing the dirt.

Don't massage your face with soap.

If the soap is good soap, it will cleanse quickly and gently without rubbing. That is the very most you should expect any soap to do. Massaging with soap lather, however pure and mild, is sure to rob your skin of its natural oil, which keeps it soft and clear and smooth.

You may use Ivory Soap with complete assurance that it will cleanse without irritating.

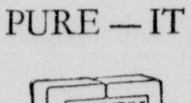
For Ivory Soap is pure, mild and gentle, and is made of the very finest ingredients.

In his famous book on the care of the skin, Dr. William Allen Pusey says, "The natural color of the best quality of toilet soap is creamy white." Ivory Soap is creamy white.

Ivory promises no miraculous or mysterious results—its purpose is to cleanse safely. In achieving this purpose, Ivory quickly removes the surface accumulations which clog the pores. Yet it leaves behind enough of the essential natural oil to keep the skin soft and smooth. Follow the warm soap-and-water washing with a dash of cool, or cold water, and you have completed the best and safest of all cleansing treatments. PROCTER & GAMBLE

IVORY SOAP

99 44/100% PURE — IT FLOATS



A Flaked Soap which meets the important safety test

Before you trust your costly fine fabrics to any soap in any form, a doubt naturally comes up in your mind.

"Is this soap really safe?"

Ask yourself: "Would I be willing to use this soap on my face?"

A soap which is too strong for your face is naturally too strong for your delicate and costly garments.

Ivory Flakes is simply Ivory Soap in flake form. Of course it fully meets this important safety test.

For Ivory Soap, pure, mild, gentle, white—has protected the faces and hands of millions of women since 1879.

Ivory Flakes offers you a real margin of safety for cleansing the very finest garments you own.
